Nine and a half's Goodbye

Original title: Neuneinhalb

Abschiede

Germany, 2010, 14 min.

Director: Halina Dyrschka

Age recommendation: 10 +

Film genre: Short film

Synopsis:

Tom is 10, Piet is 6 years old. Two inseparable brothers. Tom explains the world in his very own way, enabling his little brother to understand life's secrets. He always turns things the way that they make sense – no matter if they are true or not, because in his eyes it is just important that they could be true. Piet wants to have a little brother of his own now, too – to explain the world to him as well as his elder brother did. But he gets a hamster instead. Now the hamster has to listen to all of Piet's secrets – whether he likes or not. One day Nineandahalf lies dead in his cage. Now Tom has to explain what “being dead” means? Where does the hamster will go to?

I Am William

Original title: Jeg er William
Denmark, 2017

Director: Elmer, Jonas

Age recommendation: 10 +

Length: 86 min.

Film genre: Feature film

Synopsis:

When his dad dies, William has to move in with his uncle. The uncle is a small-time crook, and whenever he ends up in a scrape, William is the one who has to help him get him out of it. As if he doesn't have enough problems himself. Some bullies at his new school are trying to extort money from him using threats of violence, but he's not without the support and courage of his new friend Viola. A typically Danish children's film, that's both funny and serious, and has a real sparkle in its eye.
